

POYNTER

FELLOWSHIP IN JOURNALISM

Online Feminist Journalism

Wednesday, January 29, 6:30 p.m.
WLH 309 – 100 Wall St.

Panelists

AKIBA SOLOMON

Akiba Solomon is the Managing Editor of Colorlines.com and an NABJ-Award winning journalist, editor and essayist from West Philadelphia. Online, she has written about the intersection between gender and race for Colorlines.com and culture for Ebony.com.

LORI ADELMAN

Lori Adelman is a global advocate, writer, and Executive Director of Partnerships and Outreach at the award-winning site Feministing.com. Lori has been with Feministing since 2009, and covers a range of topics including reproductive justice, race, gender, global health and the media.

SARAH MIRK

Bitch Media online editor Sarah Mirk is a journalist and editor who has strong opinions on the future of print and digital media. Raised on the internet, Mirk received a degree in History from Grinnell College and worked for five years as reporter and columnist for weekly newspapers The Stranger and The Portland Mercury.

communications.yale.edu/poynter

Yale